SENSORY-FRIENDLY PERFORMANCE

PARENT’S GUIDE

Sunday, December 8 at 4 p.m.

Barbara Robinson

The Musical

“One of the best Christmas books ever.” — Publishers Weekly

CHILDREN’S THEATRE of Charlotte
The Best Christmas Pageant Ever: The Musical

By Jahnna Beecham & Malcolm Hillgartner
Adapted from the book by Barbara Robinson

About the show
Back by popular demand is Children’s Theatre of Charlotte’s most-popular show of all time! The Herdmans are ready to wreak havoc! What happens when the “worst kids in the history of the world” find out about free food at Sunday school? Worse yet, what happens when they decide to audition for the annual Christmas pageant? This could be the worst pageant ever… if it even happens! This hilarious and heartfelt musical comedy, adapted from Barbara Robinson’s classic story, will have your family laughing and crying as we celebrate the holidays. In this production, Children’s Theatre of Charlotte casts age-appropriate roles, many of whom are from its School of Theatre Training, who perform alongside our professional adult cast.

Show sponsors
Coca-Cola Consolidated, Rodgers, Robin & Bill Branstrom, Jami & Bryan Farris, Danielle & Ryan Hutcheson, LaKeisha & William Jefferson, Parker Poe

Special thanks to Julie Higginbotham of Precious Developments. Julie has worked as our consultant in the creation and preparation of our sensory-friendly performances. We’re grateful for this valued partnership.

What to expect at a sensory-friendly performance
Sensory-friendly theatre is an approach to the audience experience that “softens” the environment. What does that mean exactly? In general, we make the theatre available to everyone, including those who may need more flexibility to help manage all of the sensory experiences that come along with attending a performance. Below are some of the adjustments Children’s Theatre of Charlotte is making to create a more sensory-friendly environment tailored to each show:

- Lights in the theatre will stay low during the show, instead of turning all the way off.
- We will lower the sound levels when needed.
- We sell fewer tickets for the sensory-friendly performances so families have more room to move as needed.
- We provide fidgets, headphones and weighted toys to help children feel more organized and settled.
- Someone will be at the front of the stage with glow sticks to help give families a warning when sensory-rich moments are nearing. Raising one light means there’s a smaller sensory moment coming up (like a loud sound or a change in lighting). Raising two lights means a more intense sensory-rich moment is about to occur.
- We provide a quiet room if children need to leave the theatre to feel more settled or regroup during the show.

Support materials for you
We provide several guides to help prepare your family for your visit:

The visit guide that walks your family through our facility.

The child guide goes with each performance.

The parent guide like this one helps parents support their children’s learning and experience in the theatre.

We want you to have the opportunity to enjoy the theatre with your family, so with that, please enjoy the show!
Learning opportunities and sensory-rich moments in
The Best Christmas Pageant Ever: The Musical

Welcome to the church! These kids are sharing their favorite things about Sunday School, but wait until you hear what Charlie Bradley likes most about it.....

How do we help our children learn that our words matter?

Sensory-rich moments:
This scene includes lots of lighting shifts and moves into a very busy musical introduction to the Herdman children. The production is full of commotion whenever the Herdmans are involved!

↓

Meet the Herdmans! They really know how to make an entrance!

There is usually more to the story when we see “bad” behavior in other people.

Sensory-rich moments:
This scene contains lots of lighting changes, shouting, and chaotic movement all over the stage.

↓

The Bradleys discuss the annual Christmas pageant over dinner, but it sounds like there may be some changes this year....

How do we handle it when there are changes to our expectations?

Sensory-rich moments:
This scene contains doorbell rings and phone rings.
Uh-oh, Helen Armstrong doesn’t look too good! She’s about to ask Grace to do something big....

It’s so hard to ask for help when we need it!

Sensory-rich moments:
This scene contains lighting shifts and a somewhat busy musical number.

Here are the Herdmans again, and they brought more trouble with them to the lunch room! Charlie Bradley has had enough though, so he’s ready to take a stand.

How do we help kids stand up for themselves when they are being bullied?

Sensory-rich moments:
This scene contains an extended bullying scene with some shouting. It moves quickly into a busy musical number with lighting shifts.

Helen says she’s helping Grace direct the pageant, but is she really ready to give up that control?

It’s important that kids learn that there’s more than one way to do things in the world.

Sensory-rich moments:
This scene contains an “oops” moment.
The Herdmans decide to check out this thing called “church.”

How do we talk to our kids about safety when they see other children doing things that are unsafe or unhealthy?

Sensory-rich moments:
Imogene is smoking a fake cigarette in this scene.

It’s time for pageant auditions! This might not go as Mrs. Bradley planned....

It’s not always easy to include everyone, but it’s always possible!

Sensory-rich moments:
This scene contains an active musical number with implied bullying and lots of lighting changes.

Ivy wants to know, what on earth happened at auditions?

Managing friendships is hard, especially when one friend’s perspective starts to shift.
Uh-oh, Helen is back with more “problems” to share with Grace. What is Grace going to do?

How do we find a balance between supporting our kids and letting them find their own way of doing things?

Sensory-rich moments:
This scene shifts across multiple moments through two musical numbers.

It’s time for the first pageant rehearsal. It seems to start out alright, but do you think the Herdmans will let it stay that way?

Do you think the Herdmans really want to be involved in the pageant? Why or why not?

Sensory-rich moments:
This scene contains a busy group “fight.”

Beth’s friends are really unhappy with her and her mother!

It’s hard when kids take on adult perspectives and try to manage them with their friends.

Sensory-rich moments:
This scene contains a musical number and ends with Beth shouting out toward the audience.
Mrs. Bradley is worried about whether she’s doing the right thing by including the Herdmans in the pageant....

Doing the right thing isn’t always easy. How can we adjust our perspectives to make it happen?

It’s time for the second pageant rehearsal. What will happen when the Herdmans learn more about the Christmas story?

Kids should always get credit for the things they don’t know, and it’s our job to help them learn.

Sensory-rich moments:
This scene contains a very busy musical number with shouting, lighting changes, and bullying moments. Imogene is smoking a fake cigarette again, and the scene ends with fake smoke from a “fire” in the church.

Well, the plan for this pageant keeps changing. What does everyone think of the Bradleys now?

It’s so easy to jump to conclusions, especially when there’s someone that seems easy to blame!

Sensory-rich moments:
This scene contains a brief musical number with lots of movement around the stage, as well as a significant lighting shift.
Those Herdmans are a rough crew, right? But wait... they do have a softer side that just might change the game for them.....

How do we work to see children for more than the behavior that’s in front of us?

Sensory-rich moments:
This scene contains a quick shift from a quieter moment into a louder one. There are brief moments of shouting as well.

The Bradleys are convinced that the Pageant should go on, but will they be able to convince a whole church to let the Herdmans participate, too?

We can’t control other people, but we can control our reactions and responses to them.

Sensory-rich moments:
This scene contains a musical number with lots of movement and 2 brief shouting moments.

The show must go on....with or without the Herdmans? You’re going to want to see what happens next!

We can learn a lot about our kids’ perspectives when we allow them to share stories from their points of view.

Sensory-rich moments:
This scene contains a few busier moments and moments of shouting as it transitions into the concluding musical number.
OK, what does everyone think about the Christmas Pageant? Do you think it was the best or the worst Christmas Pageant ever?

Sometimes, we don’t see the bigger picture until after we see the lessons in life.

Sensory-rich moments:
This final scene contains a busy final musical number with lighting shifts before it moves into the curtain call.

---

Thanks for joining us at Children’s Theatre of Charlotte for this special performance.
Learn more and buy tickets to other sensory-friendly performances at ctcharlotte.org.
Click on Shows & Tickets and look for Accessibility & Inclusion.

Upcoming sensory-friendly performances include:

- The True Story of the Three Little Pigs
  Sunday, January 12 @ 4 p.m.

- Akeelah and the Bee
  Sunday, February 16 @ 7 p.m.

- GRIMMZ Fairy Tales
  Sunday, March 8 @ 4 p.m.

- Dragons Love Tacos
  Sunday, April 26 @ 4 p.m.

Save 10% with a Choose-Your-Own subscription. Create your own lineup of three or more shows. Also, enjoy free ticket exchanges, plus a discount on any shows you add to your ticket package.